Dear Ms. Jenkins:

I am writing to express my interest in joining ABC's Silicon Valley office as an associate in the IP Litigation department. I am a Stanford Law School graduate and am a third year associate at XYZ, where I have been practicing intellectual property law. Prof Polly Smith at Stanford Law School recommended that I apply for this position, as she thought that this might be an ideal opportunity for me.

At XYZ, I have prosecuted and defended clients' interests in complex IP litigation relating to patent (covering patents relating to biotechnology, software and pharmaceuticals), copyright, trademark, domain name, freedom of information, and e-commerce disputes. Specifically, I have prepared and responded to letters of demand, drafted motions, drafted briefs in support of motions and other trial documents, taken depositions (including expert witness testimonies), produced research memoranda, and designed and supervised document review.

My previous work experience also includes a research internship with the Stanford Center for Internet and Society, under the direction of Professor Larry Lessig and Ryan Calo. As an intern, I researched American legal precedent and drafted memoranda for use in litigation in the Tenth Circuit. I also hold an MA in electrical engineering from University of California at Los Angeles and spent many semesters serving as a teaching assistant for various engineering courses.

I am very familiar with XYZ's reputation as a leading legal services provider, and more particularly, with firm's enviable reputation in the field of IP litigation here in Silicon Valley. Indeed, XYZ has been recommended to me as an ideal place to continue my legal career in the US. In turn, I believe that my academic and professional credentials would make me a valuable addition to ABC, and I look forward to the opportunity of putting my experience to work on behalf of the firm.

I have attached my resume and Stanford transcript for your consideration. If you feel that my abilities and experience make me a strong candidate to join the IP litigation team at ABC, I would be very happy to meet with you for an interview.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,

Name
