Lewis H. Richardson, Jr.—Edmondson High School Class of 1972—One (1) $500 scholarship (non-renewable)

The Edmondson High School Class of 1972 established this scholarship with the intention of giving back to the community and the environment that enabled their growth and development. Their relationship with Principal Lewis H. Richardson, Jr. was one that provided advice, counsel, leadership, discipline, encouragement, guidance and unconditional love during their years at Edmondson High School.

Dr. Richardson was an educator, whose accomplishments set his career path leading him to Edmondson at a time when his unparalleled leadership style would be the catalyst for change in the lives of many students. The Baltimore Sun obituary described him as a “teacher and administrator, known as a disciplinarian who cared about his students.” It is our hope that we provide support to an aspiring educator with a commitment to educational excellence with care, concern and compassion for students.

The Edmondson High School Motto, “Excellence Demands Sacrifice” is one that modeled the legacy of Lewis H. Richardson, Jr. and we are proud of his legacy in providing support to a deserving high school senior.

Criteria: You must be a senior at Edmondson High School; have a cumulative high school GPA of at least a 2.5; with plans to major or minor in education; and submit an essay describing your academic and professional goals, why you have chosen them and what you have done to prepare yourself thus far (500-1,000 words; 2-4 pages).

The Exchange Club of Baltimore Scholarship—Two (2) $2,500 scholarships (non-renewable)

The Exchange Club of Baltimore is a community service club whose mission focuses on the children of Baltimore City. In 1980, the Exchange Club created the Child Abuse Prevention Center, which has merged with Parents Anonymous to form The Family Tree. The group also supports and contributes to the William S. Baer School to help purchase equipment and teaching materials for severely handicapped children.

Criteria: You must have verifiable community service; attend a college or university located in Maryland; have a cumulative 3.0 GPA or better; an SAT (CR+M) score of at least 1000; demonstrate financial need; and submit an essay describing your academic and professional goals, why you have chosen them and what you have done to prepare yourself thus far (500-1,000 words; 2-4 pages).

Finalists will be asked to participate in an interview. Award recipients must attend an award luncheon.

The Joyce A. Kroeller Memorial Scholarship—One (1) $1,500 scholarship (renewable)

This scholarship honors Joyce Anne Kroeller, the founding Executive Director of the CollegeBound Foundation. During her 10-year tenure, she built CollegeBound into a well-endowed and enormously effective program enabling hundreds of Baltimore City public school students to attend college. She believed passionately in the power of higher education to improve lives. Intensely committed to public service, she worked on behalf of women and children who were abused as well as those who suffered from poverty. She was also an advocate for victims of Alzheimer's disease. Joyce died of melanoma on June 4, 2007 at the age of 57. This scholarship is awarded to a student who is planning a public service career and thus will emulate her legacy.

Criteria: You must have verifiable community service; have a cumulative 2.5 GPA or better; demonstrate financial need; submit at least one (1) reference from an individual who can attest to your commitment to helping others; submit an essay describing the environment you live in, then describe the most meaningful contribution you have made as a volunteer in your community (500-1000 words; 2-4 pages); and be accepted to and attend a Maryland four-year college or university.
